

MEDIA COMMUNICATION CONVERTING BURST LOSSES TO ISOLATED LOSSES

ABSTRACT

5 Systems and methods for transmitting media packets are described. The methods include receiving media packets in one order and transmitting them in a different order that is selected according to loss characteristics of a downstream channel. The order selected for transmitting the media packets is one that results in reduced distortion with respect to the 10 distortion predicted for the first order.